The Daily Courant.

Friday, May 14. 1714.

London, May 14.
Yesterday arrived the Mail due from France.
From the Paris Gazette, dated May 19.

Madrid, April 30.

LETTERS from Lisbon of the 20th of this Month advise, that on the 10th Mr. Worseley Envoy extraordinary of the Queen of Great-Britain, made his publick Entry, and had Audience of the King and Queen. The 12th the King set out on a Journey of Devotion to Alcobaca. The same Day the Brasili Fleet put to Sea, consisting of thirty two Ships and two others bound for the East-Indies. We learn from Gibraltar, that the Peace between the English and the King of Morocco is yet uncertain, that Prince refusing to give up the Slaves taken during the Truce, unless their Ransom be paid. The Advices from the Camp before Barcelona of the 19th Instant import, that about 220 Rebels having drawn together on this Side of the Llobregat, in the Neighbourhood of Castel de Fels and of Villanueva de Cubelles near the Sea, the Duke de Popoli detached Lieutenant-Colonel Don Nicholas Teran with 100 Horse and some Companies of Grenadiers, to drive them from thence: That the Rebels having possessed themselves of a narrow Passage, at first made a Discharge on the Troops, by which two Soldiers were killed and three wounded; but they were attacked with such Vigour, that they were forced almost without Resistance, so that 19 of them were taken Prisoners, among whom were 3 Officers, and the rest were cut in Pieces, 20 excepted who escaped to the Mountains. Another Party of 300 Miquelets having posted themselves on a Mountain of difficult Access, not far from Vega, the Regiments of Corduba Asturias and Castile were detached against them, who defeated them, killing 60 and taking 28 Prisoners. 'Tis confirmed, that there were great Divisions in Barcelona; and even that those who have the Superiority among them, offered to surrender, promising perpetual Fidelity; but they persisted in demanding to be maintained in all their Privileges. The 18th the bombarding of the Town was discontinued. We have Advice from Aragon, that a Body of Rebel-Miquelets had possessed themselves, on the Frontier of that Kingdom, in the Pyrenees towards the Country of Bigorre, of a Post and Passage called Canfran; but were not Masters of it long, being beaten out of it and most of them killed or made Prisoners.

Paris, May 19. The 10th of this Month, Signor Cornelio Bentivoglio, the Pope's Nuncio in Ordinary, and the Bailly de la Vieville, Ambassador of the Religious Order of Knights of Malta, went to the Palace of the Thuilleries. At their Arrival they were received by the Baron de Breteuil Introducer of Ambassadors, by the Marquis de Dreux Great Master of the Ceremonies, and by M. des Granges Master of the Ceremonies, and conducted into the lower Hall. After which, the Nuncio in Camail and Rochet, and the Ambassador of Malta in a long Mourning Cloak, descended, being conducted by the Baron de Bretgal, into the Apartment where was the Corpse of the Duke of Berry, and they were received there by the Great Master and the Master of the Ceremonies, and by the principal Officers of the deceased Prince. The Nuncio and the Ambassador of Malta, performed their Devotions kneeling on Cushions, while the Clergy sung the De Profundis, at the End of which the Nuncio sprinkled Holy Water on the Prince's Corpse; the Ambassador of Malta did the like after him, and both were conducted back in the same Manner as they had been received.

The 11th the Parliament, the first President at their Head, the Chamber of Accounts, the Court of Aydes, the Court of the Mints, and the University, went to sprinkle Holy Water on the Corpse of the Prince.

The 12th the great Council did the like, as did also several Communities.

The 16th the Corpse of the late Duke of Berry, after having received all the Funeral Honours in the Palace of the Thuilleries, where it had lain exposed, was carried to St. Denys on a Funeral Chariot, with all due Pomp. The Duke of Bourbon, who was nominated by the King to be chief Mourner, was accompanied by the Duke de la Tremouille, first Gentleman of the Chamber. The Bishop of Sees, first Almoner of the Prince, accompanied the Body to St. Denys, with the Abbot Bignon Dean of St. Germain l'Auxerrois in which Parish stands the Louvre, the Clergy of which Church had assisted in the Singing of Psalms, which was continued Day and Night for several Days. The Bishop delivered the Corpse to the Monks in a Body, who placed it in the midst of the Choir: And the next Day he celebrated High Mass, at which all the Officers assisted. There it is to ly deposited, till the Day of performing the last Solemn Service.

From the Paris Letter, dated May 19.

Paris, May 19. Letters from Nancy of the 12th Instant relate, that the Duke of Lorrain, the Chevalier de St. George, and the Prince of Vaudemont, have put on Mourning for the Death of the Duke of Berry; that the Duke of Hanover keeps in Pay all the Officers of the Troops which he has reformed; that a Camp was begun to be formed on the Maas in the Neighbourhood of Verdun, and another on the Moselle towards Trier. M. de Puy-Vauban is gone away for the Camp before Barcelona, and the Marshal Duke of Berwick is to set out speedily to repair thither. The King has given Order for inclosing the Wood of Marli with a Wall, which will be an Expence of 4 or 50000 Livres. His Majesty returned Yesterday from Marli to Versailles, for 12 Days. Next Monday the Ambassador of Sicily is to make his Publick Entry into this City; and the Dutch Ambassadors will make theirs the 27th Instant. The 29th the King will go back to Marli, and thence will go to pale some Days at Rambouillet. Last Thursday a general Assembly of the French Academy was held, to elect a Member in the Room of the deceased Bishop of Senlis; and chose the Marshal de Villars. The Prince of Conti is indisposed, and is in a Milk Diet, at his Seat at Lisy near Paris. The March of the Duke of Berry's Funeral began at half an Hour past 9 at Night, by a great Number of Poor, followed by the Officers of the deceased Prince on Horseback, the Coaches of his principal Officers, those of the Duke of Orleans, those of the Prince, his Pages and the King's, the King's Coachess; then came the Body of the Prince in an open Chariot, followed by his Guards and the Coaches of divers Lords of the Court. The Chariot was covered with a rich Mourning Pall belonging to the Royal Family, and was drawn by 8 Horses in Mourning Trappings. The March was through the Street St. Honore, and that of St. Denys; and they did not arrive at St. Denys till past 2 in the Morning. The Corpse will ly exposed there for 49 Days according to Custom, before it be interred.

London, May 14.

There are private Letters from Paris which say, that the Barceloners with the rest of the Catalans have actually submitted to King Philip, but not without stipulating the Confirmation of all their their ancient Privileges and Liberties. This, joyned to the Full-Power which 'tis advised the Court of Madrid have newly given to the Court of France to conclude Peace between Spain and Holland, without insulting any longer on the Guæantic of the Sovereignty for the Prince Ursini, make some imagine that the King of Spain is in a bad State of Health.
